We want to thank all the staff for their diligence and compassion in assisting our students and their families in these difficult times. Whether it is providing instruction, activities, nutrition, tech support or emotional support, you have shown that even though you have been practicing social distancing, you have not been practicing emotional distancing.

The end of this school year will be nothing like any of us has ever experienced. Opening in September will also be unique, but together we will persevere and be stronger for it.

Keep safe and healthy.

West Seneca Board of Education

This year National Teacher Appreciation Week has a deeper meaning to us all. With our nation and the world in the grip of a global pandemic, our teachers reinvented themselves as professionals over night and creatively found ways to meaningfully engage with their students from a distance providing them with educational support and a sense of connectedness.

Many thanks to all of our talented and dedicated teachers for their untiring commitment to our students. We are a stronger school community today because of your efforts.

Warm Regards,
Matt Bystrak
