

The "Big Stick" Policy

- U.S. intervened often in Latin America usually to maintain economic stability in order to protect American investments & prevent European involvement in the Hemisphere

(Examples include: Nicaragua with troops (1912-1933), occupation of Haiti (1915-1934) & Dominican Republic (1916-1924))

