“Musical training is a more potent instrument than any other,
because rhythm and harmony find their way into the inward places of the soul” - Plato

To our wonderful supporters of the performing arts...

... a note concerning concert etiquette...

It is with extreme pleasure that the West Seneca West Senior High Music Department welcomes you to our concert. We are confident that you will fully enjoy this evening's performance. In order to maximize the concert experience for both the audience and the performers, we must insist upon the observance of basic concert etiquette while inside the auditorium. The following are reminders and guidelines for our concert hall newcomers as well as veteran audience members:

- Please be sure to arrive on time. If you are inadvertently late, or must leave the auditorium for some reason, please wait until the conclusion of a selection before entering or exiting the hall. This will minimize the possibility of distracting other audience members.
- Please listen quietly and attentively while the performance is taking place. Talking easily disrupts the concentration of other audience members.
- Please refrain from the use of flash photography during the performance. Also be sure to turn off electronic devices, such as cell phones or pagers, prior to the beginning of the performance. Please note that food and drink are prohibited inside the auditorium.
- Applause is the audience's way of thanking the performers for their efforts. Applause is most welcome at the end of a selection. If the work has more than one movement, please hold applause until the conductor's arms are dropped to his or her side. The music curriculum provides unique opportunities for each student to experience music performance of various types, cultural backgrounds, and historical periods. Great care is taken in fashioning concerts that are representative of diverse musical styles, the ability level of the performing groups, and audience appeal. As one of the most discerning and encouraging audiences in this area, we thank you for being here to support the continuation of the performing arts in education.

Enjoy the performance!
