

Clothing from Around the World!

Flag

Bulgaria

Women wear an outfit called "Rodopska nosia" in Bulgaria. This outfit is worn for big events like Christmas and Easter. The outfit comes from people who lived in the Bulgarian mountains.

Flag

China

Men and women wear silk robes in China. The color red is considered a lucky color. These robes are worn on special days like Chinese New Year. Some robes have coins or dragons sewn on them!

Flag

Germany

Men in Germany wear pants with suspenders called Lederhosen. Lederhosen are mostly worn on a special holiday called Oktoberfest. This holiday happens during the month of October.

Flag

Ghana

Men and women in Ghana wear kente cloth. Kente is hand woven cloth that has a pattern. This pattern stands for where a person is from in Ghana. Kente cloth is worn for special events like weddings.

Flag

Greece

Men who are soldiers wear clothes called Tsolia in Greece. Men who guard a tomb called “The Tomb of the Unknown Soldier” wear these clothes. They wear their Tsolia for parades.

Flag

India

Sari

Women wear long pieces of fabric called saris in India. Saris come in many different colors and are worn every day. Some saris are worn for special events like weddings and parties.

Flag

Japan

Kimono

Wooden Sandals

Men and women wear robes called kimonos in Japan. Many kimonos have flowers and trees on them. Kimonos are worn on special days, like The Flower Festival.

Flag

Mexico

Men, called cowboys, wore large hats called Sombreros in Mexico to block the sun. They also wore ponchos made out of wool to keep dry when it rained. Today people wear these clothes for parties called fiestas.

Flag

Russia

Kokoshnik

Sarafan

Women in Russia wear a long dress called a sarafan. Women and girls wear a hat called a kokoshnik. This dress is worn on special holidays like Christmas when women dance traditional folk dances from Russia.

Flag

Sweden

Candles

Wreath

Dress

Women and girls dress up for St. Lucia Day in Sweden. They wear a wreath with candles on top and walk in a parade.

