

West Seneca Central School District presents

Internet Safety forum

An evening for parents, guardians and communities to learn about how to protect children in an increasingly online world.

6 to 8 p.m. Monday, Dec. 9

East Senior Auditorium, 4760 Seneca St.

Representatives from The National Center for Missing and Exploited Children and the FBI will discuss the role of emerging technologies, devices and social networking sites as they relate to children, and provide strategies to protect children online.

Topics include, but are not limited to, cyberbullying, online privacy and online predators.
